

Let's Ride Together

According to Larry W. Dennis, president of Turbo Leadership Systems and passionate motorcyclists, "There lives inside each of us a genius, a power, a capacity-an untapped potential. This possibility for being and becoming is seen in the shadows of our past achievements- the mist of dreams and aspirations. We tap our potential by gaining confidence from our achievements, accepting responsibility for our present and committing to our goals."

The process of taking touring trips on his motorcycle has been a spiritual adventure that Larry has chronicled in his book "Motorcycle Meditations, A Vision Quest to Alaska". The book captures the heart and soul of motorcycling as well as the Zen of the riding experience.

Why do so many riders equate riding a motorcycle to the feeling of flying or the convention of freedom? Larry spells it all out for us in a combination of subtle prose, adding thoughtful quotes from brave minds to embellish his mythic travels on two wheels. It is no wonder that I first met this motorized meditator as a fellow celebrant of Dr. Jean Houston's Mystery School in Wilsonville, Oregon. Here, Mr. Dennis takes us on a road trip of the mind in the great Mystery School traditions. "Motorcycle Meditations" is a thoroughly enjoyable trip through what goes on inside and outside the helmet of a motorcyclist as he dares to travel far beyond convention on roads far less traveled. I was proud to publish excerpts of Larry's book in the pages of V-Twin magazine (June, July, and August 2005 issues).
Ride free, Larry.
